Housecall Providers Primary Care Medical Director Jean-Claude Provost receives the American Academy of Home Care Medicine (AAHCM) House Call Clinician of the Year Award

The award was presented at the AAHCM Annual Meeting in Phoenix

(Portland, Oregon) – This week, Housecall Providers Primary Care Medical Director Jean-Claude Provost, APRN, DNP, FNP-C, was recognized by American Academy of Home Care Medicine (AAHCM) with the 2024 House Call Clinician of the Year Award. This award recognizes an outstanding clinician who has made significant contributions to the delivery of quality healthcare to homebound patients and demonstrates the important value of clinicians in the field of home care medicine.

“I feel quite honored, touched and humbled to be recognized by the American Academy of Home Care Medicine,” said JC Provost. “I am proud to have provided primary care in the home for the past 20 years and been part of an innovative and transformational care delivery model that is now getting national recognition and interest.”

With a career dedicated to improving patient outcomes, JC has exemplified the principles of interdisciplinary collaboration and has fostered a team-oriented environment that prioritizes patient needs. His mentorship has inspired colleagues to embrace home-based medicine practices, ensuring that patients receive high-quality, compassionate care in the comfort of their own homes.

“We are so proud that JC has been recognized by the American Academy of Home Care Medicine as a role model in home-based care. JC is able to balance a warm and compassionate presence with strong clinical and business skills to the benefit of his patients, caregivers and families. His customer service is amazing,” said Housecall Providers Chief Medical Officer Pam Miner, MD.

“We have been so lucky to have him as part of the Housecall Providers family for the past 20 years. In his recent role as medical director, JC has helped to implement primary care practice innovation which has laid a foundation for growth, allowed us to expand our capacity into new parts of the state, and serve more Oregonians who need home-based services.”

About Housecall Providers

Housecall Providers is a Portland area nonprofit organization and one of the largest providers of medical care exclusively in the home in the Western United States. We are proving every day that in-home medical services for homebound and chronically ill patients can improve health outcomes, increase patient comfort, reduce health care costs and increase provider satisfaction. We are a proud part of the CareOregon family of health organizations.

About American Academy of Home Care Medicine (AAHCM)

AAHCM is the professional association that represents physicians, nurse practitioners, physician assistants, social workers, and others working in the field of home care medicine. AAHCM was originally founded in 1987 as the American Academy of Home Care Physicians and was renamed in 2014 to reflect the diversification of its membership. Since its founding, the Academy has served the needs of thousands of physicians and related professionals and agencies.
