Meet Our Lead Clinicians—Georgie Scott, PA and Phil Fleury, ANP

Our new west side Lead Clinician, Georgie Scott, PA, is a 1999 graduate of the Physician Assistant program at OHSU. Georgie has been with Housecall Providers for three years, joining us from an internal medicine practice. She also sees patients part-time with the Essential Health Clinic, a safety net urgent care clinic in Washington County that serves the uninsured.

Georgie gets a lot of personal and professional satisfaction from Housecall Providers. She appreciates the team approach and values what she describes as “the privilege of going into someone’s home.” Simplifying the lives of people who are dealing with a lot – complex medical conditions, being homebound – is something she finds gratifying and is very glad to be able to do. Practicing this type of medicine, bringing all her experience to bear in caring for her patients, makes Georgie a compassionate and very effective clinician.

Phil Fleury’s path to Housecall Providers began with a degree in Biology from Manhattan College in New York through the US Air Force, where he spent eight years during the Viet Nam era. He trained as a drug and alcohol abuse officer, which led to an interest in working in nursing. After moving to Portland in 1976, Phil completed nursing school at the University of Portland. He obtained a Masters degree in nursing in 1988 and worked at Kaiser and the VA. In 2001, Phil retired briefly but realized that he missed patient care. About this time, he applied for, and was accepted in, the Portland Police Reserve Unit. After extensive training, he was sworn in as a reserve officer.

Phil met Dr. Husted in 2001. He liked the idea of housecalls, geriatric practice, and the mission of Housecall Providers – he is now in his tenth year of practice here. Phil feels that police work and primary medical care have many more similarities than one might imagine – teaching, motivating, supporting and providing a service.
